

CAN ANYBODY SOLVE IT?
A TRAGIC RIDDLE.
Sims's Remarkable Novelette
In the Evening World.
PRICE ONE CENT.

SAVE THE CHILDREN.

Mr. Gerry Pulling All Sorts of Wires to Defeat a Righteous Bill.

The Gerry Hocus-Pocus Fails to Work With Assemblyman Roesech.

Tammany Hall, County Democracy and the Republican Party All on Record in Favor of "The Evening World" Bill.

The torrent of misrepresentation of Tax Evading World Children's bill, inspired by Mr. Gerry, continues in the columns of the Herald.

The opponents of this moderate and humane measure, which merely gives parents and children the right of appeal from decisions of committees by police justices—a right enjoyed by criminals of every degree and fundamental American citizenship—do not hesitate to resort to the worst methods to retain their autocratic power over the lives of the children of rich or poor who may in any way fall into their hands.

Mr. Gerry himself has done a vast amount of lobbying of a low order. He has pulled all the wires he could reach to induce members of the Assembly to withdraw their support of the bill.
For instance, he got Police Justice White to summon Assemblyman Geo. F. Roesech before him and try to switch him off from his energetic championship of this bill.

But Mr. Roesech, who is made of sturdy stuff, didn't "switch." Mr.
Gerry then had President Hognet, of the Emigrant Savings Bank, attempt the same feat.
But still Mr. Roesech stood by his convictions.
And he will continue there, as anyone who knows him can readily infer.

This is but one sample of the hocus-pocus Mr.
Gerry is engineering. His method is to throw darts in the public's eyes, to appeal to prejudice, to misrepresent the bill even to the institutions affected by it, to pull wires everywhere and to legislate at times.

On the other hand, the work of THE EVENING WORLD has been in every instance and down to the minutest detail clear and above board. We invite investigation on this score.

Mr. Gerry is making an effort just now to array some Republican organs against this bill.
We venture to tell him in advance that almost every Republican paper of prominence, including, for instance, the enterprising Press and Graphic, of this city, and the Albany Journal, has already taken strong grounds in favor of this bill.

ENDORSED BY THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

And in this connection THE EVENING WORLD commends to the attention of the Legislature the following resolution, unanimously adopted by the Republican New York County Committee at a meeting held Feb. 21, 1899:

RESOLVED, By the Republican Committee of the city and county of New York, that we heartily and earnestly endorse and recommend the measure by the Legislature of the State of New York of the proposed amendment to the Penal Code now pending before that legislative body which shall amend section 201, chapter 676, Laws of 1891, and chapter 46, Laws of 1894, so that the same shall be amended so that the same shall be subject to review by an order of record, upon certain facts on the facts and the law, and in such a proceeding a committee of the Legislature shall be authorized to receive and consider evidence, and to make such extent as may seem best, or a rehearing of the charge ordered.

THE VOICE OF TAMMANY HALL.

Democratic Assemblymen will be interested in the following resolution, which was passed by a unanimous vote of the Tammany Hall Committee on Organization at its regular meeting on Feb. 19, 1899:

WHEREAS, The relations of parent and child are among the most sacred of human ties, and the neglect of the duties of parenthood for good and sufficient cause; and

WHEREAS, The present law for the commission of children to charitable institutions by magistrates admits of no appeal to the higher courts, and the neglect of the duties of parenthood, or of reversal of that decision by said magistrates themselves, even where new evidence is presented showing the parents to be entirely worthy and able to provide for their children, or even the original evidence is shown to be untrustworthy by reason of carelessness, perjury or malice; and

WHEREAS, The right of appeal is a fundamental right of the American citizen, rich and poor; and

WHEREAS, This right of appeal, granted even to criminals of every degree, is denied to parents and innocent children by the existing law; and

WHEREAS, Many cases of grievous injustice, without any legal remedy whatever, have arisen under the existing law, whereby parents have been improperly deprived of their children and families needlessly broken up; therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED, That we favor the enactment of the bill now pending before the Legislature of this State amending the Penal Code so as to give courts of record power to review by certiorari, and to affirm or reverse commitments of children under the provisions of section 201 of said code, and we urge upon our representatives in the Legislature to vote for and support such an amendment.

COUNTY DEMOCRACY'S INDORSEMENT.

At the meeting of the General Committee of the County Democracy at Cooper Union March 12 the following was adopted:

RESOLVED, That we recommend to the Legislature the enactment of a law which will give the courts of record power to review by certiorari, and to affirm or reverse commitments of children under the provisions of section 201 of said code, and we urge upon our representatives in the Legislature to vote
for and support such an amendment.

MUSIC WAS SUPPRESSED.

Every licensed music hall which has also a license for selling liquor was tightly closed yesterday in consequence of the recent order of Supt. Murray enforcing Judge Daniels's interpretation of the blue law. Dockstader's Theatre and the Eden Music were able to open, however, without fear of arrest, as no liquor is sold there.

Blaze Among Bowery Fancy Goods.

Fire in the fancy-goods store of Bertha Sther-ling, at 170 Bowery, early this morning, caused damage of $1,000 to the stock and $100 to the building.

Explosion of "Hats for Easter"
One Hundred and Eighteen (118) Nassau st.

MAGONE A LAWYER, TOO.

HE WILL IMITATE CLEVELAND AFTER ERHARDT HAS CALLED.

The New Collector Shows Up at the Custom-House This Afternoon and Is Likely to Stay—Mr. Magone Says He Thinks He Will Practice Law at His Home, Ogdensburg.

Joel B. Erhardt, the newly appointed Collector of the Port, will call on Collector Magone to-day to arrange the details incidental to the taking charge of the office.

He will find Collector Magone all ready to turn over the office to him, but it is not likely that the change will be effected to-day. Mr. Magone has his books, papers and other private property all packed up ready for removal at a moment's notice. An EVENING WORLD reporter called on the Collector this morning.

Do you know that Col. Erhardt will call on you to-day?" asked the reporter.

"I have not received any word from Col.
Erhardt, but I understand he has signified his intention to call to-day."

"What will you do after leaving here?"

"I will leave my home in Ogdensburg, in this State, and I shall probably take up my law practice there again."

You don't know when Col. Erhardt will take charge?"

"I haven't the least idea."

At the office in the Equitable Building.
"I shall call on the Collector this afternoon and will have an interview with him," said Erhardt, he said in reply to a question as to whether he intended to visit the Custom-House.
Mr. Erhardt was accompanied by the Collector asked the reporter.

"I have never met him in my life," he said.

"Do you know when you will take charge?"

"I don't just now, but I shall probably do so after my interview with the Collector. I don't know if I have anything further to say regarding my intentions after assuming charge."

Erhardt, the private secretary, Mr.
Kimball, will also resume his law practice in this city, until he may be retained for a short while, until the collector's former staff with the routine of business. He will make a few calls on his friends, and then he will be serving him in good stead.

THE ALLEGED BROOKLYN ANARCHISTS.

Their Lawyer Protests Against an Adjournment and Wants an Examination.

Bernard Nauman, Franz Benker, George Reynold, Fred Dunbar and Ernest H. Hoad, the five alleged anarchists whom the Brooklyn police claim were banded together for the purpose of arson and collecting insurance money, were brought before Justice Nacher in the Eastern District Police Court this morning.

A letter was received from the District Attorney, John F. Tamm, in which he requested that the case be adjourned until the 22nd inst., when the case would be heard before Justice Cullen in the Supreme Court to-day and obtain a habeas corpus returnable to-morrow morning.

THE DOCTOR HAD BUT ONE ARM.

But He Rescued His Sister and Had Her Assaulted Arrested.

Dr. Charles A. Norton, of Washington, D.C., was a complainant in the Jefferson Market Police Court this morning against James Fitzgerald, fifty-two years old, of 5 East Twenty-sixth street, whom he charged with assault.

Dr. Norton, who has but one arm, was going through Waverly place in company with his sister when the prisoner seized the young lady by the arm and pulled and pinched her until she nearly fainted.

Despite the loss of his arm the doctor succeeded in pulling his sister away from the assaultant. By his sister and having her assaultant arrested.

The prisoner said that he was intoxicated and did not know what he was doing. He pleaded no hard for release that the doctor withdrew his complaint.

OLD TASCORRA PUSHING THE BUCCO MAN.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 8.—Ex-Congressman John B. Haskin, "Old Tascorra," of New York, is vigorously pushing the prosecution of the case of the late John B. Haskin, of New York, by pretending to be the son of the General James. He considers the matter as a great joke, and he is laughing heartily at it.
He is now in the hands of the authorities, and he has positively identified his man in court.

MRS. RAUM'S DIAMOND PIN.

She Sails for Europe After Losing It, and Leaves No Description.

REWARD.—Lost, April 5, a six-stone diamond pin, set in a gold ring, with a Metropolitan Hotel, where it will receive reward.

W. C. Raum and wife were guests of the Metropolitan Hotel last week, and on Saturday morning left for Europe, to be gone for seven weeks.

Before he left, Mr. Raum told Clerk Keefe that he had a diamond pin, and that he had lost it.
He did not describe the pin any more particularly, nor leave the money for the reward, but instructed Keefe to obtain the address and name of the finder.

AMATEUR BASEBALL NOTES.

The Little Rock team played with a score of 15 to 13. Batteries—Clemens, Egan; Egan, Stapleton; St. Stapleton, Miller; Collins; Murphy, Hogan.

Los Angeles vs. St. Louis, at St. Louis, Sat., 7:30.
Los Angeles vs. St. Louis, at St. Louis, Sat., 7:30.
Los Angeles vs. St. Louis, at St. Louis, Sat., 7:30.

BEREFT OF HER LITTLE ALL.

LIZZIE SAVED IT PATIENTLY TO PAY FOR HER MOTHER'S FUNERAL.

A Purse with $11 Wrapped in a Bit of Muslin, $8 and Two Gold Rings Dropped.
She Thinks, on West Twenty-sixth Street, the Collector Found the Purse and Was Starving to Get Out of Debt.

I OBT—Pocketbook, on 26th st., near 14th ave., Saturday night, containing all the money of a poor working girl, leaving her without work or food. Who found it, please return it to her, 412 West 26th st., basement.

It was a frail little woman that in answer to a call for Lizzie Dowd came down to the office from the upper regions of the paper-box factory of Louis Bauer, Ninth avenue and Twenty-fifth street, this morning to meet an EVENING WORLD reporter.

She was about twenty-two years old, and she wore a gown of mourning goods, over which was a big black apron.

There was an anxious inquiry in her big black eyes as she asked, "Have you found it?"

"Oh, sir, it was I who found it," she said. "I found it on West Twenty-sixth street, near 14th avenue, four weeks ago, and the money was what I had saved toward what I owed the undertaker for her funeral."

It was just a little black purse, a bag with a clasp on each side. There was $11 wrapped up in a piece of white muslin on one side, and $1, what I earned for a part of a week's work last week.

The little woman placed her slender hand on her head and drew a long breath significantly, and went on: "There was $2 that Annie gave me and two gold rings with my name, 'Lizzie Dowd,' on them, and I had a few trinkets, and my key, so was in it, too, and I'm almost sure I lost it in Twenty-sixth street."

So the advertisement in this morning's World says, "Lizzie took the slip from the reporter's hand with a mystified expression."

Oh, I wonder who she was good? I don't know who put that advertisement in the paper.
Everybody has been good to me. The girls in the factory raised $15 for me to help pay for my mother's funeral. They were very kind to me.
Lizzie's hand went up to her face and then passed thoughtfully over her smooth, black hair. "I was very sad when I lost it, but I think I will ever get it, sir. I love the undertaker $14 and I was going to him when I lost my pocketbook. It was very kind of him to let me have it back, and I had bought nothing for the house yet.
There wasn't a thing in the house to eat nor to wear."

No. 412 West Twenty-sixth street is an old house that has seen better days. The woman who occupies the parlor floor said Lizzie Dowd was a hard working girl and had done her best for her mother till she died. Lizzie and Annie Morgan lived together in two rooms in the basement, and all that Lizzie had said was gospel truth.

WELL-DRESSED NEW YORKERS.

The Best-Dressed Man in the City Said to Be a Gambler.

[New York Times to Louisville Courier-Journal.]

The best-dressed man in New York is a gambler. He is a familiar figure on upper Broadway in the afternoons. His clothing is not bad, but it is of the finest texture. It is him to perfection. From his hat to his toe tips of his varnished boots he looks like a prince of the purple. His jewelry is solid and substantial. His styles of clothing are as numerous as the rays in a rainbow.
He always attracts attention, for he is never overdressed, and never makes the mistake of wearing clothing unsuitable to the day or the season. He is a gambler, and he is a silly woman, and in the evening he deals faro in one of the gilded palaces not a stone's throw from the Hoffman House.

GEN. NOBLE'S EARLY LIFE.

He Had a Hard Struggle with Poverty in His Younger Days.

[Washington Letter to Chicago News.]

Secretary Noble and Secretary Blaine were boys together in the old town of Lancaster, O. It was the birthplace of Mr. Noble, and Mr. Blaine went there when quite a lad to spend some years in the family of Thomas Ewing, formerly Secretary of the Treasury, and the father of Gen. Sherman's wife. They remember each other distinctly, although Mr. Blaine is a little the older of the two. A friend of Gen. Noble tells me some interesting reminiscences of his early days. It appears that after he graduated from Miami University, he came to Cincinnati and then removed to St. Louis to enter practice, but he received no welcome there, and he was obliged to leave. He then came to St. Louis, and he found a very different control of everything social, political and commercial there was no room for a young man like himself. He struggled along for several years without any headway, and finally had to give it up. Then he went to Cincinnati, just after the Missouri line, in 1854, and he found a very different control of everything social, political and commercial there. He found a partnership at law with Henry St. John, who was a resident of Washington, and married the daughter of his partner's wife. Soon after Noble settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with
Henry St. John, who was a resident of
Washington, and married the daughter of
his partner's wife. Soon after Noble
settled in Keokuk he made the acquaintance
of a big-hearted, but rugged and rough,
and he was a very different man from
himself. He found a very different control
of everything social, political and commercial
there. He found a partnership at law with Henry St. John, who was a